ABOUT THE PROGRAMME

Research is the systematic activity carried out in order to understand the social and natural phenomena through the theoretical and methodological frame of reference. It is a careful investigation for gathering knowledge based on new discoveries and hypothetical in nature. It is an enquiry into the unknown with a systematic way of reviewing literature, developing a conceptual framework, collection of data, deriving a mathematical solution and finally presenting our findings or results in the concrete form. Deployment of theoretical and methodological frame along with the tools and techniques is a prudent investigation of any phenomena and requires immense deliberation. This FDP aims to bridge the gap between theory and practice of research.

Highlights of the Course:

- Identifying research gaps and selection of topics
- Stating the hypothesis and a systematic review of literature
- Choosing appropriate Methodologies and methods of data collection
- Tools for manuscript reading and plagiarism check with focusing on referencing style
- Enhancing Academic writing skills for publication and presentation of our research papers in reputed journals
- Awareness about the publication in various Journals such as Scopus indexed, UGC Care list and Peer reviewed journals
- Developing a cover letter for editor's and reviewer's comments
